

BLOOSHED ONE OF ZION'S FEARS

Return Of John Alexander Dowie May Be Signal For Outbreak Among Followers.

PLAN TO MAINTAIN A NEW ORDER

Deposed Leader Is Warned Not To Come Back To Zion City. As They Have Evidence Against Him There.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, April 5.—The physical collapse of Mrs. John Alexander Dowie today has been followed by rumors that the party in favor of the "First Apostle" had grown so strong that a serious conflict between the two factions in Zion City might follow the return of her husband. Friends of Mrs. Dowie say she expressed a belief that bloodshed might result. Mrs. Dowie is reported as suffering from a severe attack of nervous prostration. The appellate court today by a decision deprived Dowie of $50,000 which had been left to him by Frederick Sutton, a New Zealander. The heirs of Sutton brought suit to have the will set aside on the grounds of undue influence.

Strange Message Dowie is warned: "Keep away from Zion City. Stay where you are and avoid trouble. We have the documentary evidence against you."

Such is the substance of messages sent to the first apostle from officials at Zion City Wednesday. An effort is being made in this manner to avoid the scenes and consequences which surely will result if John Alexander Dowie carries out his declared intention to return to Zion and give battle to regain the power from which he has been ousted.

Complete plans have been agreed on by the overseers as to the methods to be pursued in the event of Dowie's arrival in Zion, but, Overseer Voliva and the others decline to go into details as to what will be done.

"We cannot make public our plans," said Overseer Voliva, "but we feel fully prepared for any eventuality."

The first publicly spoken word in behalf of the deposed leader, and which disclosed that Judge Barnes at least regards the action against Dowie as a suspension and not final condemnation, was uttered by Judge Barnes, who declared that he stood firm for the principle that no man should be condemned without a fair hearing.

Voliva to Explain. At the services next Sunday, it is announced, Overseer Voliva will make a public explanation with regard to the charges of polygamous teaching, preferred against Dowie.

It has been pretty definitely hinted that the moment Dowie sets foot on Zion soil he will be placed under arrest, and Overseer Piper, while he would not agree that such was the plan, said that Dowie was subject to arrest on charges of misappropriation of funds held in trust by him and that he also could be prosecuted under the postal laws for sending letters through the mails libeling certain persons.

Whatever else may happen it is pretty certain the first apostle will not be allowed to re-establish himself at Shiloh House or even to enter its doors. If he wishes to appear before the council and submit to examination or for the purpose of making explanations, it is probable he will be allowed to do so, but any move on the part of the deposed "apostle" to inaugurate a propaganda to rehabilitate himself with his former followers will, it is claimed, be effectually checkmated. As a last resort the charge of insanity may be preferred as a means of placing him in custody.

Dispatches were sent Dowie Wednesday by Judge V. V. Barnes and Fielding H. Whitte, the two men to whom he wired in his emergency and ordered to have the power of attorney he had given Voliva revoked. These messages were in a semi-friendly tone, as if calculated to keep Dowie in ignorance of the real attitude of the senders, whom he evidently considers as friendly to him.

"Mr. Whitte," said Overseer Voliva, "completely indorses the action taken, but considers that he can help matters by adopting a conciliatory tone toward Dowie. There is just now a lull in the battle, not an armistice, nor a truce, but simply a lull while waiting for the next gun to be fired."

Letters to Ruth Hofer. Among the developments of the day was the report that Gladstone Dowie had in his possession more than forty letters written by the first apostle to Miss Ruth Hofer, the Swiss heiress. Though the younger Dowie denied the possession of such letters, two missives purporting to have passed between the persons mentioned became public. The first begins: "My Little Lump of Gold," and reads:

"I am praying for you to-day and am hoping to hear again your words of comfort. I know you cannot change for you are the same yesterday and to-day, yea and forever. I want to hear again your expressions of faith, because they give me new hope in the womanhood of Zion. You have demonstrated to me that Christ is to rule in the spirits, souls and bodies of my people. The eyes of the world are on John Alexander, first apostle of the Lord Jesus, the Christ, in the Christian Catholic Apostolic church in Zion. Come to me again to-day and pray with me. Yours truly the devil flees. JOHN ALEXANDER."

This missive is said to have been delivered to Miss Hofer by one Oran Reece when she was staying at Eliza Hospice on the occasion of her recent visit. The other letter reads:

"Child of My Heart: The devil is at work. He has stolen his way into my home. Fear not the harsh words of women possessed of evil thoughts. They slander and rave as the outcome of imaginary ills and burdens. The Lord sent you to me. He spoke unto me instructions. Let the words of thy mouth and the meditation of thy heart be acceptable to thy chosen children. You were sent to the apostle and first priest, and the trials you have undergone were merely to test your faith. As always and until the worms eat into my body, "JOHN ALEXANDER."

TO TURN TRAFFIC GOING VIA GOTHAM THROUGH THE GULF

Conventions of Mississippi Valley Boards of Trade and Commercial Organizations Being Held in New Orleans.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New Orleans, La., April 5.—Several hundred delegates were present today at the formal opening of the Mississippi Valley and Latin American convention, for which preparations have been in progress for several months. The purpose of the gathering is the formation of a permanent organization which shall seek to divert trade between Pittsburg in the East and Denver in the West and the Great Lakes through the Gulf ports. Instead of by way of New York, to the South and Central American countries.

The roll call showed an attendance of delegates representing the boards of trade and other commercial organizations of the following states and territories: Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Oklahoma, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Texas, Montana, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

The initial session was devoted to the opening formalities and the work of organization. Governor Blanchard and Mayor Behrman extended cordial greeting to the delegates. James W. Porch, chairman of the point conference committee of the New Orleans business exchanges, spoke in explanation of the aims of the proposed organization. He said, in part:

"We realize that it requires a combined effort of the large cities north of us to create that volume of tonnage that will give us perfect shipping facilities by water as enjoyed by New York. In fact, a careful analysis of the situation clearly establishes the fact that we should have better facilities and that the wonderful tonnage that we will be able to control will speedily require them. One of the results of this convention we hope will be permanent organization with a few trained and thoroughly competent men in charge of whose business it will be to watch over every interest from a Mississippi Valley and Southern Point of view, who will constantly guard us against discriminations, and if they occur, be in a position to advise all of the participating exchanges of just what is being done and how to apply the cure. It will also be their duty to gather data of every conceivable kind for the benefit of the shippers, to look into all the entanglements or difficulties that may occur, and through an intelligent effort well applied build up sentiment to the point of making our natural advantages properly workable."

The convention plans to remain in session three days. The governors of several Southern states will be among the speakers. Local steamship lines and conditions, local dock facilities, Gulf gateways, and the Mississippi Valley's opportunity are the subjects of some of the addresses to be delivered.

New York, April 5.—After a conference lasting two hours the scale committee of the anthracite operators and miners today adjourned until Monday. It is understood no agreement was reached. The anthracite miners have proposed arbitration of the differences between them and the operators by the present board of conciliation.

Mitchell gave out the above statement and stated that as soon as the miners made the proposition to arbitrate the operators asked for an adjournment of today's conference. He said he believed the operators would answer the proposition at next Monday's meeting.

Early Settlement. New York, April 5.—The chances for an early settlement of the anthracite coal strike look very bright, as the attitude of conciliation is very marked. It is believed that if the operators will meet the men half way on some of the demands they have made, such as a reconstruction of the conciliation board, an eight hour day and an increase in pay for some classes of labor.

HARVEY HOLMES HAS FIXED HIS PRICES

Will Not Come to the University for Less Than Three Thousand Dollars a Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 5.—President C. R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin has offered Harvey Holmes of San Francisco $2,500 a year to become athletic director here, but the former football and track star thinks $3,000 is the least he can afford to accept for the hard work laid out in the reformed plan of athletics at Wisconsin. Students are willing to raise the difference of $500 by voluntary subscription, but it is said that this proposition would not be acceptable to Mr. Holmes and also that some members of the faculty have declared that athletics ought to be made so inferior to scholastic matters that the director should receive less than a regular full professor. The ordinary salary of a professor here is $3,000 a year, but a large number of them receive more because they have been offered more at other places and the regents choose to retain their services here. When the faculty was reformed the athletic system, one of the desired rates was that sports should be financially of little importance, and that the salaries should be meager in accordance with this view. It is believed that Holmes is worth the price that he asks, but the "principle" involved is troublesome to the faculty.

A more hopeful feeling as to football has followed the student mass meeting of Wednesday night, at which resolutions were adopted asking the faculty to retain the game revised as it is by the American rules committee and reformed and restricted as it has been by the western intercollegiate faculty conferences. President Van Hise is inclined to continue the game in view of the strong sentiment that has developed in its favor. Some effect toward faculty mercy may be had as the result of the student resolution, adopted, apologizing for the insults offered in the recent outdoor demonstration when faculty members who have been most active in the assault upon football were burned in effigy.

The commissioners of the central drainage district, Juneau county, will have to face the court at Mauston April 23. The excessive assessment of about $2 per acre on lands that were assessed less than this amount by the town assessor brought out a remonstrance signed by 115 petitioners, being 6 more than who signed for drainage. The outcome of this will be anxiously looked upon by others in adjoining drainage districts which are burdened with drainage taxation.

terval of 20 feet, was completed in the field. The revision of the Lake Geneva and Silver Lake quadrangles for culture only was completed in the field; scale 1:62,500, contour interval 20 feet.For the resurvey of ten 15-minute quadrangles in the counties of Jefferson, Kenosha, Racine, Walworth, and Waukesha, 222 miles of traverse were run by Mr. George T. Hawkins in the fall of 1904.One topographic atlas sheet representing Wisconsin territory was issued by the Survey during the year. This was a map of Richland Center, Wis.
Geologic investigations in Wisconsin were carried on under the direction of Prof. T. C. Chamberlain, who supervised the work of several parties engaged exclusively in unraveling Pleistocene geology. Under his direction, Mr. W. C. Alden continued work in quadrangles in southeastern Wisconsin, giving special attention to the glacial drift and associated phenomena, but also making studies of pre-Quaternary formations. The mapping of the areal geology of the Wa-tertona, Oconomowoc, and Waukesha quadrangles was completed and that of the Hartford and West Bend quadrangles was begun. Mr. Alden also prepared a bulletin on the drum-line of southeastern Wisconsin and made progress in the preparation of a paper on the martine-bowlder trains of the Watertown, Wis., district.An areal and economic survey of the Mineral Point quadrangle in Wisconsin and Illinois was made by Prof.
U. S. Grant. In this work he cooperated with the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey, and was assisted for three months by Mr. A. F.
Cridder. During the office season, the manuscript and maps for the Mineral Point folio were completed and submitted for publication. A brief paper on the lead and zinc deposits of Wisconsin was also prepared for the annual economic bulletin. The detailed mapping in this area established the fact that many of the lead and zinc deposits lie in synclinal basins.An areal and economic survey of the Lancaster quadrangle was commenced by Mr. H. F. Bain, with the assistance of Messrs. E. F. Burchard and J. R. Bannister.Stream-gaging stations were maintained by the hydrographic branch at Neillsville, Eau Claire, Ladysmith, Merrill, Neeshah, and New London.A short report on the water resources of the Mineral Point quadrangle was prepared by Mr. E. S.
Grant. Brief accounts of the underground waters of the State and survey well records were given in Survey publications by Mr. Alfred R. Schultz and by Mr. E. F. Lines, respectively.DRAIN SWAMP LANDS
BY DRILLED WELLSMethod Makes Possible the Reclamation of Much Lowland About Country.The drainage of swamp lands by means of drilled wells has received the attention of Mr. Robert E. Horton of the United States Geological Survey. The manner in which these wells should be constructed is set forth in a paper included in Water Supply and Irrigation Paper No. 145, the annual publication entitled "Contributions to the Hydrology of the Eastern United States."In the drift-covered areas of the northern United States are numerous basin-shaped depressions or "kettle holes," without natural outlets, many of which are occupied by swamps or ponds. If drained, the rich, mucky soil which covers the bottom of the depression would often make the best kind of land for a truck garden and, on the other hand, drainage of the spot would break up the caravans of malaria-laden mosquitoes domiciled there. Ordinary surface drainage is often inadequate for the removal of these unsightly, unhealthy swamps, but many of them have been successfully drained into deep-drilled wells.To drill such wells an ordinary well-driller's outfit is necessary. The average cost of a 3-inch well, including casing, should not exceed $1 a foot.The mouth of the well should be in an excavation below the bottom of the pond. If the well is provided with a bell mouth, its capacity is nearly doubled.The inflow of water is reduced if a screen is placed over the mouth of the well to prevent the entrance of sticks. A large brick catch basin with ample screen-covered openings should be built around the mouth, so that the full capacity of the well may be utilized.The effectiveness of these wells depends (1) upon the penetration of an open fissure or porous stratum of sand and gravel and (2) upon the underground waters rising only to a height below the bottom of the pond.
If these conditions are right the water enters the well mouth and passes down the pipe and out into the porous beds at the bottom.All who may be interested in this novel method of draining swamp lands may obtain from the Director of the United States Geological Survey at Washington, D. C., copies of the paper which contains Mr. Horton's recommendations.

CLUB WOMEN GO TO
BELOIT NEXT WEEKDistrict Convention Will Be Held in the Line City, Wednesday, April Eleventh.On Wednesday, April 11, the convention of Federated clubs of the First District of Wisconsin will be held in Beloit. The First District includes the clubs in Racine, Kenosha, Whitewater, Janesville, Edgerton, Evansville, Clinton, Delavan, Elkhorn and Lake Geneva, and as many attend besides the delegates, it is expected there will be fully one hundred and fifty visitors, many present for the day and some staying longer. The Beloist City Federation of Women's clubs, hostess for the event, through efficient committees has made all necessary arrangements to make this gathering one of the best yet. The comfortable and convenient Methodist church has been secured for the place of meeting and the Methodist ladies will outdo themselves in serving dinner and supper, not only to the guests from out of town, but to resident club members, as that is about the only social hour to be found in the program of good things. The convention opens in the morning with resolutions, greetings, responses and reports. The afternoon aside from reports on business will have other things of interest, among them being an address by Mrs. Clark, the parliamentary law teacher, on the benefits of Federation. Opportunity will be given for guests to visit the college, the latter part of the day. The evening gives great promise. The music will be by the Beloit Treble Clef and the speaker "is the Rev.
Florence Buck of Kenosha, who will talk on "Romance of Fiction." To those who have heard her no more is necessary, and the program committee were fortunate in being able to secure her. As there is business of vital interest, as well as the election of officers, even this part of the program will not be dull, to say the least. The present officers of the District Federation are:
President—Mrs. J. C. Humphrey, Whitewater.
First Vice-President—Mrs. A. N.
Bort, Beloit.
Second Vice-President—Mrs. May
Evans, Evansville.
Corresponding Sec.—Miss Hamilton, Whitewater.
Recording Sec.—Mrs. Chas. Tarrant, Janesville.
Treasurer—Mrs. Tom Earl, Edgerton.
Auditor—Mrs. Case, Racine.

Labor Notes

The net effect of all changes in rates in British wages reported in November was an increase in wages of about $6,000 per week. The changes affected 25,700 workpeople, all of whom received advances.The Brooklyn Central Labor Union has pledged itself to co-operate with the local health bodies in raising a fund with which to build a sanitarium for consumptives.The funeral drivers of New York City have organized a branch of the Greater New York Council of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and their organization will be known as the "Greater New York Funeral Drivers' Union."A problem of the greatest importance, which has not escaped the Cuban planter's attention, and which so far has not been satisfactorily solved, at least to the satisfaction of the planters and manufacturers, is the much talked of labor question.
For the last two years the scarcity of able field hands has been a serious drawback to the planter and resulted in financial losses, either through the loss of a portion of the crop or through the long drawn out "winding up" of the season.In 1902, 180 local painters' unions were working 10 hours per day, 250 unions nine hours a day, and 165 unions eight hours per day. This was an average of nine and one-half hours per day. At the present time forty local unions work ten hours per day—298 have gained the eight-hour day.The firemen of the Delaware & Hudson and the firemen of the Lackawanna have a proposition for a federation of locomotive firemen of all roads in the coal regions.The Miners' Federation of Germany has 124,600 members.

requiring the roads to sell 2,000 mile

The passage of the bill by the lower surprise, inasmuch as only a few weeks ago the proposition of a two-cent rate in the house was lost by a big majority. The present bill, the railroad men declare, will put a pre-serious decrease in earnings. Among

The judges of election—the men who are to count the ballots polled in the Gazette diamond contest—will be named tomorrow. Because of the difficulty of securing the services of a committee for the evening on which the contest is scheduled to close it may be necessary to postpone until Monday night, April 10, the final closing of the polls. The fact that Saturday is a busy day for those who are to be invited to serve on the canvassing committee as well as every one else was overlooked when the closing date was set and then it could not be seen that the votes were to run up into the thousands and hundreds of thousands as they have, making the task of counting and tabulating them so much heavier. It is believed, too, that the polls should be open until the committee is given possession of the ballots and records for the final count. For all of these reasons it may be necessary to postpone the close until Monday, but this will depend upon the convenience of the gentlemen who are to canvass the returns.

Mr. Connors took the lead with a rush yesterday when over six thousand votes were cast for him and as a result he crossed the twenty-thousand line ahead of Mr. Hemmens. Mrs. Mason reduced Mrs. Spicer's margin over her by five hundred votes. She received 2862 votes for the day to 2329 for Mrs. Spicer. Miss Wills, Mrs. Spicer and Mrs. Mason are now almost tied for first honors. The following communication has been received and seems to call for an answer at this time:

To the Contest Editor,
The Gazette diamond contest.

Dear Sir: The writer is a subscriber who has given his certificate to one of the candidates and I now understand that out of friendship for another candidate they might be transferred to him in case he could not win. Now would it be fair to do this in view of the fact that I might have a second choice without consulting my wishes or preferences to the matter? Please publish your reply and oblige.

Yours truly,
D—

It would not be fair and "D" has probably been misinformed. The votes that have been handed to the candidates have been given to them for their own use and not to help elect someone else and none of those who have been voted for at any time during the contest would be a party to anything that was not fair and right.

REGULATIONS.

The voting in the Gazette Diamond Contest will be by ballot, clipped from regular issues of the Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette and by voting certificates issued with subscription receipts to The Gazette.

Ballots clipped from The Gazette will count one vote each for the persons named thereon when voted in conformity with these regulations within one week of date of issue. Votes will not be accepted for employees of The Gazette office and votes cannot be transferred after they have been once voted and included in the returns.

Ballots must be clipped from regular issues of The Gazette, and no extra copies of this paper will be printed during the contest for the sake of the ballot contained therein. The trophies to be voted for consist of two diamond rings, one for a lady and one for a gentleman, each valued over $100, and two silk society flags, each valued at $50. The Gazette diamonds are to be awarded to the lady and gentleman having the largest number of votes at the close of the contest and the flags to those having the second largest number, for presentation to the society or organization which they may select.

A committee of representative citizens will be named to canvass the vote at the close of the balloting and make the awards.

Vaughan's Burning Bush

(Kochia Tripartita)
A highly ornamental annual of unusually rapid growth, forming regular pyramids from two to three feet in height, having a cypress-like appearance. The leaves are slender and of a light green color until September, when they change to a carmine and blood-red. Its bright autumn coloring has given it two other names, "Mexican Fire Bush" and "Burning Bush." The seed comes quickly. Sow indoors in April and plant out in May, or sow in open ground about May 1st. Plants do best in a sunny exposure and in sandy soil, about two feet apart. Pat. Dec. 9 for 25.

Your Cold

How will your cold be tonight? Worse, probably. How about tomorrow? The trouble is, colds always tend downward. Stop this downward tendency with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Your doctor will tell you why it can do this. Ask him all about it. Ask him if he has anything better for coughs and colds. Then follow his advice, whatever it is. We have no secrets! The First Showing of Spring Millinery Wednesday and Thursday, April 4th and 5th.

For these days Miss O'Neill announces what will prove to be the most comprehensive display of pattern hats and millinery novelties that will be shown in Janesville this season. The patterns shown are the selections from a dozen or more houses, and there is for this reason a collection not possible in any other department in town. There is an individuality about the styles shown here that always places them in a class by themselves.

Make your plans to attend on one of the above days.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

The Brethren

A Brilliant Romance of the Crusades

By RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," etc.

ILLUSTRATED BY HEYER

We have secured this magnificent story for our columns and will begin the publication in a few days. We can recommend it to our readers with confidence. As one writer says: "It is a story to be read as much for its gorgeous picture of Oriental life in the camp of Saladin as for the heart-stirring whirlwind of adventures and romantic incidents with which its pages are crowded. In this tale of a beautiful half-English, half-Moorish girl seized in England by the emissaries of Saladin, and her lovers, the powerful twin-brethren who set off to rescue her, Mr. Haggard has interwoven mystery, fighting and the glamour of a far off time more successfully than in 'She' or 'Allan Quatermain.' Wulf and Godwin D'Arcy are knights strong and chivalrous; real men who make an appeal to the heart of the reader, not the usual costumed mannikins of historical stories."

"Everything is impossible until we see a success." Your own business is probably bigger now than you thought "possible" before you became a shrewd (which means a "large") advertiser.

It was a Grimm joke on someone.

Buchholz is the next alderman from the Second ward.

Wait until Watt really takes his seat in the council.

Alderman Sheridan was re-elected, defeating Harry Carter in the Fourth ward.

If we must have a carnival keep it in Spring Brook and away from the public streets.

Rosa won out as municipal judge of Beloit and the Gazette wishes him success in his new court.

President Roosevelt does not have much to say until the time comes and then he says it right out in meeting.

Francis Grant won that school commission even if some of his lawyer friends tried hard to beat him.

Visions of the probate court judge-ship being offered to them on a silver platter have vanished from the vision of many of the local attorneys.

There are lots of people who can explain just how Judge Grimm was elected today that could not see it that way the day before election.

Mr. Maxfield, a law partner of John Winans, is now the city attorney. He has won a good fight against odds and will make an excellent city attorney.

THE BRIGHT SIDE OF THE STRIKE

There is no use disguising the fact that a coal strike is a serious thing, especially when it covers both the anthracite and bituminous fields. A coal strike that should continue so long that all surplus supplies of fuel should be exhausted would paralyze the industries of the country. The last strike in the anthracite field led to conditions that were so acute that the President of the United States felt justified to interfere in order not to put an end to suffering, but to prevent threatened riot and bloodshed.

The strike which is now impending comprises both anthracite and bituminous miners, but there are certain considerations to be noted as making the situation less ominous than it would otherwise appear. In the first place the indications are that it will not cover the entire bituminous field for some of the operators have been willing to make concessions to the miners and if they shall now do so, Mr. Mitchell's policy is to permit the miners receiving these concessions to continue work. Another favorable condition is the fact that as regards anthracite, the strike comes at a period of the year when the necessity for household supplies of coal is at a minimum, and there are supplies in existence sufficient to meet the consumptive demands for an indefinite time to come. Another favorable consideration is the prospect that the strike cannot continue to a point of fuel starvation and industrial prostration. The miners are now in a position where they do not command the public sympathy to the extent which they did during the last anthracite strike and public sympathy is a material source of strength.

There is still one other consideration which should be noted as being to the good of the situation. It is this: That the cessation of mining means a cessation of the payment of wages and to some extent a slackening of business all of which should give some relief to the money market which has been suffering so long from an excess of prosperity. The way the stock market acts is an indication that Wall Street does not view the situation with special alarm.

KNOW AMERICA FIRST.

The transportation companies of the United States—both rail and water—have adopted as their motto for 1906 and intend to put upon their stationery and into their advertisements, this terse and inspiring line: "Know America First," says the Wall Street Journal.

Magnificent advice that should commend itself alike to the patriotism and the pockets of every American citizen.

Very few Americans, however, really take the trouble to know America first. The first four or five weeks of vacation which they secure they use in a trip to Europe. If they want a rest they engage passage on a swift Atlantic liner for a whirl in London and Paris. If they want the inspiration of grand scenery it is a trip to Switzerland that they plan. The tide of American travel to Europe rises year after year. It promises this summer to advance to high water mark. The engagements of passage upon the trans-Atlantic liners for the coming season have broken all previous records. The steamship companies have before them the prospect of a most profitable summer.

Few people have any conception of the enormous sums of money which are expended in Europe every year by American tourists. It is impossible to compute the total, but it is estimated as high as $200,000,000, that amount would be equal to a 5 per cent year upon an investment of $4,000,000,000. If Europe, therefore, could capitalize its receipts from American tourists the company would have to issue $4,000,000,000 of stock; and there would be no water in it.

Now it would be idle to deny the advantages and the delights of European travel. They are many. No person who is able to afford the luxury, should forego the advantages of a few weeks or months spent in Europe. A man ought never to be so provincial as to tie himself down to his own country alone until he gets to thinking that there is no good in anything outside of its boundaries. Foreign travel like foreign commerce, increases peace and civilization.

But the American should know America first. Surely his first duty is to learn the resources of his own country. In no way can he do this to such good purposes as by travelling through it. The man who fails to cross the American continent before he crosses the Atlantic ocean, has failed both in patriotism and in wisdom. He ought to be an object of derision of every European with whom he comes into contact. Yet there are multitudes of people who can tell you all about London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Rome, but know nothing about Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco, or even Washington. They can give an entertaining account of Swiss scenery, but they know nothing of the grandeur of Colorado. They have visited the Rhine glacier, but have never feasted their souls on the solemnity of the Grand Canyon or the majestic beauty of the Yellowstone Park. They have traveled up the Rhine, but not up the Hudson. They have crossed Lake Geneva, but know nothing of the delight of steamship travel through the Great Lakes.

This is a shame and a loss to the country. The extravagant sums of money which Americans spend in Europe are the least item of loss. Let us not begrudge Europe the money which she makes from American travel, even though the aggregate is so large that it cuts down the great trade balance which Europe annually owes us for our products. What we should most deplore is the ignorance which so many of our own people have of their own country, of its scenic beauty and of its material resources. A trip up the Hudson is balm for the soul. A visit to Niagara or to the Grand Canyon inspires to higher thoughts even a cathedral service. A trip across the continent discloses to us, as nothing else can, do the wonderful richness of the country, the marvelous capabilities of our people and the splendid destiny of the nation.

Especially Wall Street men should know America first. They owe their means of livelihood to what the soil of America is producing. Any Wall Street man who has failed to travel through the west and to the Pacific has deprived himself of the best possible education for the carrying on of a successful Wall Street business. A man who knows this country and knows it well is better able to understand values and judge conditions.

NOVICES IN JOURNALISM
The novice in journalism always deals in personalities, inspired by the notion that the mission of a newspaper is to reward friends and punish enemies. The Recorder has been edited for the past month by a little coterie of this class of writers. The attacks made upon the Gazette and its management have passed without notice because not worthy of recognition.

It requires no argument to call names or malign character and reputation, but when a paper lends itself to this kind of work it sacrifices the respect of decent people and enters the ranks of the gutter-snipe politician.

The editorial staff of the Recorder assisted in defeating Judge Dunwiddie and depriving Rock county of the judgeship. If there is any glory in the achievement the staff is welcome to it.

PRESS COMMENT.

It's All Over, Anyway
Milwaukee Journal: Speak more slowly and lower your voices, gentlemen. The public are good listeners; it what you say is worth while.

Lanky Bob to Retire Again.
Evening Wisconsin: Bob Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, has the tenacity of a prima donna. He is said to be preparing for another retirement fight.

Bad Year in that Respect.
Exchange: Zion City appears to be in a state of political revolt also. This is a bad year for leaders who imagine that they own their constituents.

Magic in a Name.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The eastern states are trying to find a use for the dogfish. Why not call it a byproduct and make a mint of money?

Value of Regular Habits.
Buffalo Express: A writer in a Washington paper says that sleeping late on Sunday morning is injurious. Certainly. Any irregularity may be said to be injurious. A person should sleep late every morning.

Trite Comment From Odd Source.
Eau Claire Leader: In this free and easy country reforming age, the average newspaper adopts its own style of punctuation, spelling and grammar, to say nothing of display type headlines.

In Spite of All the Scandal.
Boston Transcript: Notwithstanding and nevertheless, the new business of the life insurance companies of the United States, amounting to $2,400,000,000 in 1905, was as large as the entire foreign commerce of the United States, including both imports and exports.

Distinction Rather Vague.
Sheboygan Journal: Newspaper advice on how to vote at elections doesn't count for much these days. Voters think for themselves. They know as much as the editor, and frequently a good deal more. But it is still the newspaper's province to urge voters to cast their ballots, or add Press Comment, rather pull the voting machine levers, for the best men.

Will Host Be Assimilated?
Madison Democrat: A correspondent says that Insurance Commissioner Host has a $12,000 position awaiting the expiration of his term in office. It is to be hoped that the aggressive anti-diffident fighter will not be "benevolently assimilated" by a horrid twenty-year endowment company.

Great Invention Gone Wrong.
New York Tribune: The portrait of Dr. Perkins, inventor of aniline, is to be placed in the National Portrait Gallery, London on the fiftieth anniversary of the invention. The manufacturers of adulterated and colored foods ought to be willing to contribute liberally for a monument to one who has enabled them to make their adulterations so much more attractive. Of course, Dr. Perkins should not be held responsible for the painting of stomachs a beautiful aniline hue. He did not intend aniline for such uses.

English Ladies Were Americans.
Chicago Chronicle: It appears that we have got to take back all our solemn censures of the depravity of English women because railways had begun to run "smoking cars for ladies." The only smoker for ladies ever run on a British railway was a small compartment in a coach of a special train from London to Liverpool, specially reserved for the sole and exclusive use and behoof of three American women on their way home. "Unconditional surrender" is all that is left us.

Up-to-Date Apostleship.
Milwaukee Sentinel: John Alexander is a striking example of a man who lived too long. Carrying his pretensions and his ideas with a high hand, his influence, even among the more ignorant of his followers, naturally became weakened with the passing of time and his recent mental and physical breakdown hastened the end, which came Sunday, when, amid the greatest enthusiasm Overseas Voliva publicly defied the apostle and disobeyed his explicit commands. And in all the city of Zion not one person was found so poor to do reverence to the fallen apostle. Even his wife and his "unkissed son" appear to have cast him off, as is sometimes the case with wives and sons when the earning capacity of the head of the family is diminished or nullified. Young Mr. Voliva was received with wild acclamations when he announced in effect that the first apostle has been relegated to the scrap heap and that the apostleship will henceforth be occupied by an up to date and thoroughly reliable prophet.

Aspects of Coal Situation.
New York Tribune: The total production in the United States in 1905, not yet fully reported, will probably fall a little below 300,000,000 short tons. Pennsylvania mined 110,000,000 tons and West Virginia 38,000,000 tons. On the other hand, Illinois mined about 30,000,000, Ohio 25,000,000 and Indiana about 10,000,000. These three states are thus credited with less than a quarter of the total output. Moreover, the Pittsburgh company's mines in Ohio and Illinois will be kept open, as will certain mines in Central and Southern Indiana. If a partial shutdown occurs, soft coal prices are pretty sure to rise at Chicago and other manufacturing centres in the Middle West. But if prices rise, the dissenting operators will no longer be able to assert that they cannot afford an advance in wages. They will also see that their natural markets invaded more and more by the West Virginia product, of which from 75 to 80 per cent (owing to the state's lack of local industries) must be sold outside its borders. West Virginia is developing faster as a coal state than any of its rivals, and may soon crowd the Ohio, Indiana and Illinois producers to the wall in their own markets. It would be a blunder on their part, therefore, to encourage an invasion so dangerous to their interests. There may be some friction and disturbance in the soft coal field for the next month or two. But there is no longer any prospect of a damaging interruption to production, with its blighting effects on general trade and industry.

The Security of Wealth.

Wall Street Journal: A great deal is said nowadays about envy and hatred of wealth and concerning attacks upon property. Some alarm is felt that the spirit of unrest which is prevalent, and which expresses itself in criticisms of men of great wealth and of vast aggregations of capital in corporations, may seem a revolution of the social order and the confiscation of private property for public use.

There is, however, no other country in the world in which property is more secure and wealth better protected than in the United States. This is a fact which cannot be expressed too strongly. The rights of property are in the United States, upheld by the written constitution.

The fifth amendment of the constitution declares that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

No socialistic agitation, no uprising against wealth, could ever accomplish anything in this country amounting to confiscation of private property until that clause of the constitution had been repealed. Even in England the rights of property are not as well protected as that. It might be possible in that country for a socialistic uprising to obtain such momentum and power as to put through parliament in a single year a measure that would revolutionize the social system. Such a thing would be impossible in this country. The constitution of the United States cannot be changed, except by the vote of two-thirds of the states. This takes time; it involves a long and tedious process. Even if a party of radical socialists proposing confiscation should sweep the country in a general election, it could not establish its program until the constitution could be changed, and this would take so long that it is altogether probable that before it could be accomplished a reaction would set in and nothing would be done. It is possible that experiments in socialism, involving more or less of confiscation, could be tried by individual states, but before other states would adopt these experiments they would be so tested that the whole experiment would fail before there would be any general adoption of the program.

POLITICAL AFTER-TALK

James Bennett, John H. Watson, and Henry Kueck are the three most prominently mentioned candidates for the office of street commissioner and Dr. T. H. McCarthy, Dr. Fred Sutherland, and Dr. W. D. Merritt are aspirants for the position of health officer. The new council will choose at its first regular meeting.

Beloit cast 1,238 votes in favor of licensing saloons and 1,029 votes against the proposition. The pro-license element won by 204 votes, the same majority Mayor-elect Cunningham had over Crahan. The Line city with its fierce mayorality contest, cast 2,680 votes—224 more than Janesville's off year total of 2,456.

Captain Cunningham, father of Mrs. J. H. Gately of this city at whose home at 110 Fourth avenue he resides, and Mayor-elect Cunningham of Beloit, voted for the fifty-seventh time on Tuesday. He is eighty-six years of age. Though not in the best of health he walked to the polls.

Paul Pratt, who has many friends and acquaintances in Janesville, was elected mayor of Whitewater on the republican ticket.

Mr. Charles Williams With Bassett & Echlin, Janesville, Wisconsin.

freely gives the use of his name in endorsing the painlessness of the dental work of Dr. Richards.

He was suffering with an ulcerated tooth which was so sore that to touch it gave him untold agony.

Dr. Richards removed this tooth without his feeling the least bit of pain.

These things are not being done in a corner.

People are awakening to the fact that real painless dentistry at last is being done here in Janesville.

MANAGEMENT OF THE PARK HOTEL CHANGED AGAIN

E. A. Kemmerer, Who Has Been Landlord for Five Years Past, Declines to Renew Lease.

Last Saturday night the management of the Park hotel was taken over by L. C. Brewer and son. Today an agreement was concluded whereby E. A. Kemmerer, who has been the landlord for five years past, renews his lease for three years at least, probably with the privilege of five. Mr. Brewer and family will make their home at the hotel, but the management will be entirely in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Kemmerer. The many friends of the latter will be glad to learn that they have decided not to leave Janesville.

JANESVILLE MAY NOT HEAR BERNHARDT

Manager Myers Telephones from Chicago That He May Cancel the Engagement.

Manager Peter L. Myers is in Chicago today for a consultation with Mr. Gerson, manager for Sarah Bernhardt. At three this afternoon he telephoned the Gazette office that with all probability he would not make the engagement of Sarah Bernhardt, as has been already announced. Mr. Gerson had rearranged the week's schedule and instead of giving Janesville the Wednesday date wanted to make her appearance here on Saturday night. As Manager Myers would have to give a two-thousand-dollar guarantee and would count for a large part on people from out of town, many of whom could not get back home without much inconvenience until Monday, he said that he had about decided to cancel the engagement. Mr. Gerson talked over the phone, extolling Bernhardt's drawing powers, and saying that if Janesville did not get it Madison would. While Mr. Myers has received much encouragement in his attempt to bring so noted an actress here from outside theatres, it is, too great an undertaking for him to attempt on a Saturday night.

TO THE GREAT BEYOND

All that was mortal of the late John Terwilliger, Sr., was tenderly laid to rest in the family lot in the Baldwin cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were held at the home of his son, Fred, at one o'clock and later from the Baptist church at Afton, the Rev. S. Lugs, pastor of the Methodist church of Shopiere, officiating. The Methodist quartet composed of R. K. Overton, R. H. Howard and Nellie Wright sang three very appropriate selections. The pallbearers were H. Fessenden, F. Butcher, P. Ide, L. E. Clair, H. Nelson and B. Hollis. John Terwilliger came to Wisconsin in the early fifties, was married to Adelle Scott in 1859, and one child was born to them, dying with its mother in the same year. Later he was again married to Mary Frances Cohoe in 1864. Nine children were born to them all but five with their mother preceding him to the other world. Those who are left to mourn his demise are John of La Prairie, Edwin of Beloit, Clarence, Fred and Susie of Afton. Eight grandchildren and one sister, Harriet Williams, also of Afton, besides a large circle of other relatives also remain.

Just a Boost

Kickers' Kolum: Now that election is over the question of who is to be health officer for the coming year comes up for consideration. In recognition of services rendered last year when Janesville was visited by an epidemic of smallpox, the like of which has never been experienced here, the present health officer, Dr. T. H. McCarthy, should be reappointed. He has been an honest, conscientious official and has discharged the duties of the office in an able and tactful manner. In just appreciation of services rendered the past year, he should be given an unanimous vote at the next meeting of the city council.

FAIR PLAY.

W. T. Jefferson and W. N. Chalmers of Madison were in the city yesterday.

FIREMEN PLAN FOR A BIG SHOW IN JULY

Talbot's Fighting the Flames to Come Here Under Their Auspices Then.

Sometime in July next the Janesville firemen will offer to the public a treat in the form of the famous Talbot's "Fighting the Flames" exhibition. The concern travels like a circus with twenty-two cars, carries eight horses and two hundred and fifty people. It has a big canvas wall instead of a "top" on the show tents and gives a realistic fire scene. It will be brought here under the auspices of the local Firemen's Relief association and will doubtless be liberally patronized. The Berger Carnival company had tried to interest this association in their shows, but realizing that the citizens did not want carnival companies here they turned them down. Later a local stock company was formed and individuals will profit by what this show makes.

Talbot's new production of "Fighting the Flames" is the most realistic picture ever presented, combining humor, drama and excitement that is to be met with in everyday street life. For a scene there is a street which contains a grocery, a dairy, a Chinese laundry, a theatre, a hotel and sundry other stores. On either side of this block two other streets are shown and down these come the throng of life whose business it is to interest and amuse the audience. It is a faithful reproduction of what really does occur in large cities of today. All sides of street life are presented: street cars, run in order to enhance the actuality of the scene; the roadways are crowded with cabs, express wagons, autos and all other kinds of street traffic. Business men are seen in their frenzied hunt for gold; their wives going about their daily marketing; beautiful women seeking new fashions, and the usual idlers lounging about.

The work of the Salvation Army in its search after new converts is shown. The city police are seen walking to and fro, patrolling the streets, preserving the peace and regulating the traffic. The quack doctor appears on the scene with his troupe of acrobats and comedians, and in this way still walkers, tumblers, wire walkers and dumb-show comedians, etc., are introduced. Later on the supposed Joss House above the Chinese laundry is raided by the police. Then the farmer, the organ grinder, the clown, the fighting nigger and the tough will be introduced. The hour grows late and the streets become deserted save for people going into the gaily-lighted halls, and the drunken men staggering home. The chiming of the church bell is heard summoning the people to evensong.

Then when the street is entirely empty, smoke is seen issuing out of a paint store; a policeman quickly arrives on the scene and the alarm bell is rung. People crowd on from everywhere; all around there is bustle, excitement and shouting; a fire engine comes dashing on followed by a hook-and-ladder; the explosion of a gasoline stove sets the whole block ablaze and the flames leap in fierce frenzy; another engine comes flying along, hose wagons, hook-and-ladders and all other apparatus follow on in quick succession. The alarm is given in the theatre, a panic is quelled and the people stream out in a more or less orderly fashion. Excitement tears everywhere; the fire quickly gains the upperhand and the firemen make desperate efforts to stem the blaze; men jump into tarpuilins from the top stories of buildings; down scaling ladders and ropes unconscious forms are carried to safety at the risk of the firemen's lives. Extreme bravery and gallantry are shown on every side. A fireman on the top of one of the stores, busily engaged in playing his hose, fails to notice that the superstructure under him has been burning away; the crowd shouts warning, but too late; the doomed man tumbles, the structure beneath him crumbles away and he is hurled into the fiery furnace below; a gasp of horror rises from his brother firemen and they continue their fight with the flames with renewed vigor. In this way all the different phases and methods employed in dealing with huge fires are shown. Then there are numerous side scenes, too many to be dealt with in a short account like this; none devoid of interest or excitement. An excellent example of the fine work done by the police in controlling and restraining a crowd is demonstrated.

Charge of Simple Assault and Battery Was Substituted for More Serious Complaint.

William Peters, who was arrested Monday for heaving small boulders at Constable Bogardus and against whom the state's prison offense of assault with intent to do great bodily injury was lodged, appeared in municipal court this morning. His attorney, Louis Avery, succeeded in having the charge of simple assault and battery substituted for the more serious one and to which the defendant pleaded guilty. He was given the alternative of paying a fine of $25 and costs amounting to $5.50, or spending forty days in jail. For the time being he is unable to pay the fine and is sojourning at the bastille.

BAD RUNAWAY IN WHICH ONE HORSE IS BADLY INJURED

Team Belonging to Frank Husker Runs Away and Is Caught Near Jackson Street Bridge.

One of the liveliest runaways that has occurred in Janesville for many years happened this morning. Frank Husker, who lives on the Mineral Point road, was driving to town with a load of milk for the creamery. Just as he turned onto Jackson street from Mineral Point Avenue the wagon tongue dropped, striking the animals and frightening them so they ran at full speed down Jackson street and across the lower bridge, where they were stopped by the firemen of the No. 3 house. One of the animals ran into a telegraph or telephone pole and struck its eye on the steps, gouging it fearfully.

J. A. DENNISTON

SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN PRISON

Robert Deminger of Juda, Forged Names of Father and Another Party to Four Notes.

Accompanied by his wife and little child, his counsel, Attorney McGrath, Sheriff N. S. Durst, District Attorney J. J. Sherron, and Clerk of Court Sam Blum of Green county, Robert F. Deminger of Juda appeared before Judge Dunwiddie in circuit court Tuesday afternoon and pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery. His counsel made a plea for clemency. The prisoner, in order to secure money with which to purchase a threshing outfit, had signed the names of his father and another Juda party as indorsements to four notes. It was his expectation that he would earn sufficient money to meet the notes before they became due and that nothing would ever be known of his desperate and foolish attempt to acquire the property by using the credit of others without their consent. His expectation was not realized and when the notes came due and he could not meet them the forgeries were exposed. The outfit was returned to the original owner, so nobody was a loser by the transaction. The punishment stipulated by law for this crime is from one to seven years. The court sentenced Deminger to serve a term of two years at Waupun, which he was taken Wednesday morning. The man owned two or three acres of land and his little family will have to eke out an existence on it as best they may during his incarceration.

NEIGHBORING TOWNS BANISHED SALOONS

Brothead Put on the White Ribbon After Thirteen Years of Intemperance.

Among the neighboring cities who remained on or climbed aboard the water-wagon are: Brothead, Stoughton, Milton Junction, Albany, Brownstown, Cambridge, and Deerfield. Evansville went "no license" by a vote of 237 to 137, Milton the same way by a majority of 12. Brothead which casts about 500 votes and has permitted saloons within its borders since 1893 went "dry" by 99 votes. Former Mayor John Young was a Janesville visitor last evening. He is not one of those who rejoice over the exile of the 10 saloons and the resulting loss of $3,500 revenue to the city. "Ginger ale is going to be the proper beverage with us," he said, and his eyes twinkled as he added: "When any of our citizens want anything stronger they will have to journey either to Monroe or Janesville. The railroad fare to Monroe is ten cents cheaper. I do not think there will be any effort to operate 'blind pigs.' But we have some alert and progressive druggists who understand their trade."

A Stallion Certificate for the Chestnut stallion, "Janesville Dude," owned by Archie McBride and S. L. Bradley, was filed with the register of deeds.

"Boys, this is on the line. I must be seen down here any more. This neutral game is up. They're going to make war on you independent operators, sure thing, and can't hobbnob with you. Oh, but they're wild up the street

"This neutral game is up."

tonight! The report is that the sheriff has started up the old stage road, and the lads are crazy to do 'em up. I've got to go down the canyon and see."

"It's another false alarm. The sheriff isn't going to march on this camp, even with 10,000 deputies."

"Anyhow, that's what they believe up there, and they're hot against you. This neutral dodge of yours won't work. I can't do much for you, but anything I can do to keep this little house undisturbed I'll do. He bowed to Mrs. Kelly. "But, as you said today, I can't maintain my men without the help of the miners, and, besides, boys, I believe in organized labor. Labor is an army, and discipline is everything."

"Why don't you maintain it, then?"

The smile dropped from his face like a mask, and a sinister, older man faced them. "Give me time. What this camp needs is a little Napoleon—the will of a grapple. It needs a dictator, and I may be able to lay my hand on the scepter yet."

"It's pure anarchy now," said Raymond.

"It was till I entered the game. I am in control of the situation tonight. If I could command $10,000 to take care of my men I'd bring order out of chaos or hang about forty of these boobies."

"If you'll make this camp law abiding, Jack, you will be one of the great men of the state. Even the valley will praise you. It's up to you this minute to show your power."

"Yes, but there are a whole lot of other considerations. I can't afford to play into the hands of those cursed, one lung dudes. If it were a question of men like you and Kelly here—but it isn't. The Red Star company is made up of a set of phantoms, who bathe on labor like a lot of turkey buzzards. They have no regard for any human rights."

"These howling dervishes up the street are not concerned with rights, not even their own."

Munro was in deadly earnest now. "That's where you are wrong, old man. In their blind, fool way they are fighting labor's battles."

"It's a queer mixup," said Kelly, with a sigh. "I have a hatred of them dudes myself. They want to run our end of the county and their own too. They despise a workman. They dodge 'im as if he were a polent."

Raymond, rapped on the table. "Now wait a moment. You're confusing the jury. The immediate question is, 'How can we keep that mob of deputies from coming up here?' I'll tell you what I will do. I will volunteer to go down and meet the leaders and try to stop their advance."

Kelly rose with a spring. "Go, you! I believe you can do the trick. Barnett is your friend. The sheriff is mine. I would go with you, but I dare not leave me home."

"Never mind me, Matt," said the small wife.

"You're both taking a big risk," remarked Munro. "They may arrest you both."

"I have no fear," Kelly said, "but I dare not go—just now."

"I will go if the executive committee will authorize me to treat with the opposition," declared Raymond.

"They will never do that, but Carter may. You might take him. He's scared nearly out of his skin, but he might be willing to go. Come with me and we will see."

In the headquarters of the organization Raymond and Munro found Carter and his staff loudly discussing measures and answering and sending messages. Dolan, the friendly reporter, was there, and also the representative of the Royle Nugget. They were both deeply trusted, and their advice was most carefully considered. Upon seeing Raymond with Munro, Dolan rushed forward. "What's the meaning of this? Have the Independents come in?"

Munro said quietly, "Roxs, I want to be alone with the president. Clear the room. Sergeant Poole."

"A tall young fellow in cowboy's dress drew a six-revolver and, using it as a sort of baton, impassively drove every one but the president, his secretary and Raymond from the room."

Munro put Raymond's proposition before Carter in a few words. Carter turned white with fear.

"I can't do it. They'd kill me. They hold me responsible for everything that's been done here. The governor has wired me to meet him, but I dare not do it. It's suicide to do it."

"Then I will go alone," said Raymond, in vast disgust. "Give me a letter saying you would like to meet and confer with the sheriff to prevent bloodshed, and I will present it."

Carter was shaking with excitement over the responsibility thrust upon him. "I don't know what to say."

"I'll tell you what to say," put in Munro. "Tell him we are fully organized and heavily armed, but that we desire to avoid bloodshed and to that end invite him and the president of the Red Star company to meet with us and Raymond in the presence of the governor of the state, in the hope of arriving at a compromise."

Raymond was pensive. "That's the first note of sense I have heard uttered in this whole row."

When the letter was delivered to him Munro said: "Now, Carter, keep your mouth shut. If it works out, you can have all the credit for it. If it fails, I'll take the kicking."

The crowd in the outer room were consumed with curiosity as the two young men came out, but Munro said: "Get the recruits all together. I'll be back in half an hour and put them through the paces."

Mounting their horses, they set off down the trail in the thick falling snow, guided only by the dim lights in the valley.

"It's a tough night to be out, Rob, but you're less likely to be interfered with on that account. If you meet any of my pickets, the countersign is 'contact-porphyry-and slate.'"

CHAPTER XXI.

RAYMOND'S descent of the canyon was singularly uneventful. He met neither the invading army nor the patrol. Happily the storm lessened as he descended, and by dawn he was once more trotting with the calm, close adhering seat of the cowboy.

He had planned to go to a friend's house in the lower town, but with the coming of light and the blooming of the rose of the morning he resolved to ride directly to Barnett's. "My errand is an honorable one," he argued. "Why should I speak into cover?"

The housemaid who let him into the house smiled upon him in a most friendly fashion. "We're glad to see you, sir. Shall I tell Mr. Barnett you are here?"

"I wish you would, and tell him I wish no one but himself to know of my presence."

Barnett was in bed, with a pot of coffee and some toast on a stand by his side, reading the morning papers.

"Hello, old man," he called out when the door was shut. "I'm mighty glad to see you, but I don't know what to do about you. What's the row, anyway? Have you come down to see Ann?"

Raymond took a chair near the bed. "Not exactly, but of course."

"I understand, and I don't blame you. She came back from up there looking like a rose of Sharon. Of course you haven't had breakfast. Have some coffee. Touch that bell for me and we'll have something heartier."

"How is Mrs. Barnett?"

"Never better. I've got her locked in there. He pointed at an inner door. "I had an idea you were coming with important news from the front. I don't know about your being here, but the people have got you mixed up with Munro in this thing, and I've had the devil's own job to convince them otherwise. I'm not a bit sure they won't want to arrest you and hold you as a hostage."

"That would be a nice job."

"Wouldn't it? But they've lost their heads completely. You see, these 'red neckers' hit us on a weak spot—they broke loose just as we were trying to float our biggest issue of stock and flattened out every deal till it looks like a square yard of nothing. Naturally, we're all headed as woodpeckers, and we're going to open these mines. We've got to open them or go broke. By the way, when did you come to town?"

"This minute."

"Ride! In this storm!" He rose on his elbow to survey him. "Great Scott, man, throw off those horrible boots and put on some dry socks and some slippers. Tumble the things out of that bottom drawer; you'll find all kinds there."

In the end he had his way, and so in warm, dry footgear and a smoking jacket the young miner ate his breakfast and drank his coffee while his host looked on and commented on his looks.

"You've taken a hand to the plow, haven't you? That fit is a wonder. And you're really struck it? Well, I'm glad of it. But you want to watch Curran. I'm told he's been to every lawyer in town with your papers in the attempt to break your grip on that vein."

"We are not worrying," replied Raymond.

When he had quite finished, Barnett said, "Well, now, Rob, what about it?"

Munro said quietly, "Roxs, I want to

be alone with the president. Clear the room. Sergeant Poole."

"A tall young fellow in cowboy's dress drew a six-revolver and, using it as a sort of baton, impassively drove every one but the president, his secretary and Raymond from the room."

NEW WEATHER SCHEME

Experts Expect to Give Out Forecasts a Month Ahead.

GREAT ADVANCES IN METEOROLOGY

Observers of the Weather Claim That the Time May Come When Conditions For a Year in Advance Can Be Given—Extensive Work Planned in Atmospheric Research.

Professor Willis L. Moore's prediction, made a few nights ago in New York, that it will soon be possible to forecast weather a month ahead, is fully concurred in by weather scientists at Washington, says the New York Globe. They believe the next few years will witness most remarkable advances in all lines of meteorology.

In fact, the weather observers hold it not impossible that even greater accomplishments may be had than those predicted by Professor Moore and say the time may come when it will be possible to interpret the seasonal weather from year to year in advance.

Now forecasts are made for from thirty-six to forty-eight hours. The government has been thirty years in developing weather observations to forecast meteorological conditions for two days and nights ahead. In this work the United States has reached a higher perfection than any other country.

Present forecasts are based on observation of surface conditions over the entire country, Assistant Chief Williams of the weather bureau explained. Professor Moore and his lieutenants are now branching out into a new field. This is the exploration of the upper air or the atmosphere enveloping the earth up to a height of what is known as the ten mile level.

By study of upper air conditions, use of the wireless telegraph for transmitting facts as to both surface and upper air conditions at sea and by a system of co-operation with other countries it is believed weather science can be developed to a degree that seems almost beyond belief. Already the government has taken preliminary steps to study the upper air. Three years ago a special research institution was begun at Mount Weather, Virginia, in a high altitude well-suited for meteorological observations.

Most of the buildings are now up and apparatus ready, and this summer extensive work is planned in atmospheric research. By means of balloons and kites floated to great altitudes and delicate recording apparatus the temperature, moisture, pressure, direction and velocity of the air at dizzy heights will be ascertained.

Magnetic observations will be taken also. The absorption of the sun's heat by the atmosphere will be measured, and, more remarkable still, analysis of the sunbeam will be made. In fact, there will be the most minute study of everything pertaining to conditions miles above the earth's level. It is expected important results will follow and that it will not be long before such upper air observations can be extended over the country.

When this study is perfected at various points the weather men say there is no telling how far in advance it will be possible to read the weather.

The plain citizen can easily tell when going out on a month's trip whether to take his umbrella and ruin coat. The effect on agricultural industry and many other industries will obviously be great.

Other nations have begun upper air studies, with interesting results. The Germans especially have gone far in this work, but mainly for scientific purposes and with little idea of applying their findings to practical weather forecasting as yet. The possibilities of wireless telegraphy are enormous in this connection. Already the government gets reports from various stan-tions and from lightships as to weather conditions.

The weather bureau is watching closely Professor Alexander Graham Bell's experience with tetrahedral kites. The other day at Fort Meyer, near Washington, Professor Bell, with a kite at 2,000 feet, got a message from 350 miles. An attaché of the weather bureau is assisting him. As the distance lengthens for transmission of wireless messages the field for weather reports from sea greatly increases.

Brains on Tap For Beauty.

If you live in Boston and "have the price," advice as to just what to buy when you go shopping may be yours, says a correspondent of the New York Press. A young woman in that town who recently was thrown on her own resources decided that her untasting eye for color-harmonies and taste in dress was a marketable commodity and opened an office where for a small sum she tells women what they ought to wear. Should her enterprise prove a success, doubtless many women in the same circumstances will take the shoppers in tow.

Spring.

Spring—sassy, frolicsome, tormenting thing!
Ain't she the darndest ever ye see,
Makin' a fool out of an old like me?
I vow, if I ain't a-tryin' to sing,
Ever see anything like her—spring?

Spring—foolish, frivolous, dancin' thing!
Ain't she the dancin' of all creation?
A-stirrin' our blood till we act like tar-nation
T'her birds an' her music an' blossoming.

Never seen nobthin' to beat her—spring.

Spring—jolly, tantalizin', tomfool thing!
She makes me feel like I'm young again, T'her rheumatism goin'—a prince 'mong mon.

Practically along, a-havin' my fling!
Ain't she the very old testament—spring?

ILLINOIS PRIMARY LAW
HANGS IN THE BALANCE

State Supreme Court is Expected to Render Decision That Act is Invalid.

Chicago, April 5.—A decision from the State Supreme court holding the primary law unconstitutional is expected to-day. The expectation, which is general on the part of political managers, candidates, and men interested in the primaries of April 23, is based on information thorowly believed and coming from an authoritative source in Springfield.

Through this leak has come the news that the decision on the law is already written, that it is adverse,
and that it will be handed down today.

According to report the court finds only one feature of the law valid and that is the provision for holding the primaries of all parties on the same day. The following provisions, it is said, are held unconstitutional.

Imposing upon certain officials duties not contemplated by the constitution or statute defining their duties and powers.

Imposing upon individuals certain restrictions inimical to the constitution and repugnant to the free ballot system.

Imposing upon prospective candidates for senatorial honors territorial restrictions practically eliminating possible aspirants from the field.

Requiring the payment of fees with nominating petitions, thus giving a man of affluence a possible advantage over a poor man.

Working hardships upon certain prospective candidates by providing for the preparation of petitions bearing signatures of a considerable percentage of the voters of the political district.

Practically eliminating the independent voter.

Immediately following such a decision, if it comes, a special session of the state legislature will be called to meet in a week to consider amendments covering the objections which invalidated the law.

This plan carries with it the possibility of the primaries from April 23 to some date to be determined later —not more than a month or six weeks if it be possible to proceed with the revision of the law and arrange for primaries and conventions under it within that time.

To Deepen Channel.

Berlin, April 5.—A movement is on foot to deepen the Koehlbrand, connecting Hamburg with the river Elbe, to allow the largest ocean-going steamers to land there. Hamburg opposes the scheme.

Santiago, Chile, April 5.—The niganized for the control of the output

MANY OPERATORS SIGN.

Illinois Miners Assert Sixty-six Owners Have Agreed to Pay Scale.

Springfield, Ill., April 5.—At the headquarters of the United Mineworkers of Illinois it was said yesterday that sixty-six to seventy coal mine operators of Illinois have signed the 1903 wage scale, although the names of these operators are withheld. The largest mine which has so far signed the 1903 scale is the St. Louis and O'Fallon Coal company, which has an output of 318,000 tons. This company is not a member of the Operators' association. The Decatur Coal company operating mines and with aggregate output of 200,000 tons has also signed the scale. Besides these there are twenty operators in the Danville district who have signified their intention to sign the agreement and ten in the Peoria district.

May Arbitrate in Illinois.

Chicago, April 5.—The Illinois coal operators and the striking miners may be brought together and the trouble in this state may be settled through the medium of the Illinois state board of arbitration. The board has sent a communication to each side to the controversy, proffering its good offices to bring about peace and word from Springfield was to the effect that Herman C. Perry, president of the Illinois branch of the United Mineworkers' union, was favorably disposed toward the idea of arbitration.

DANCES WHILE SPOUSE BURNS

Michigan Man Sets Fire to Wife, Then Sees Her Perish.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 5.—Mrs.
Martin Van'thof was burned to death early Wednesday. Her husband is held at the county jail pending the order of Coroner Le Roy. The 12-year-old son of the couple was aroused by his mother's cry and rushed down stairs to find her body on the floor surrounded by flames and his father running around the room apparently demented.
He says that his father held him and would not let him go to his mother's assistance. Van'thof has spent some time in an insane asylum and is said to have shown signs of mental difficulty of late. When the neighbors reached the house, attracted by the boy's screams and the fire, Van'thof was running up and down in front of the house half clad, shouting, "I told you I'd burn her up. Hurrah for the stars and stripes."

Sleeps Seven Weeks.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 5.—Miss Florence Parker, daughter of an Arizona mining man, has been roused from a sleep of seven weeks in a local hospital.

Explosion Injures Eight.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 5.—Eight persons were injured and the three-story brick building at 1007 Fifth avenue

badly damaged by an explosion of gas from a leaky gas pipe which plumbers were repairing.

New York, April 5.—George Davidson, William C. Spencer and John J.
Matoney, three letter carriers, are held on a charge of swindling by collecting on canceled postage-due stamps.

Z. Doty, a lawyer, was appointed receiver of the business of Sophy R.
Houston. She is the first woman receiver in a bankruptcy proceeding.

Danderine

GREW MISS LEWIS' HAIR

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT

The Great Danderine Never Fails to Produce the Desired Results

MISS Lewis' hair was very thin and it was less than two feet in length when she began using Danderine. She says her hair and scalp are now fairly teeming with new life and vigor.

That's the main secret of this great remedy's success as a hair grower. It enliven, invigorates and fairly electrifies the hair glands and tissues of the scalp, causing unusual and unheard-of activity on the part of these two most important organs, resulting in a strenuous and continuous growth of the hair.

The following is a reproduction of Miss Lewis' last letter:

January 3, 1905.
Dear Doctor Knowlton:—
You know I told you in my first letter that my hair would not reach much below my shoulders, and that all of it together only made one tiny braid.
I am sending you my photograph, which I had taken at Stevens Bro's. It tells the whole story better than I can tell it.
Everybody I know is using Danderine, so you see I am doing something to show my appreciation.
Sincerely yours, (Miss) EVA LEWIS.

Danderine makes the scalp healthy and fertile and keeps it so. It is the greatest scalp fertilizer and therefore the greatest hair-producing remedy the world has ever known.
It is a natural food and a wholesome medicine for both the hair and scalp. Even a 25c bottle of it will put more genuine life in your hair than a gallon of any other hair tonic ever made. It shows results from the very start.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. per bottle.
FREE. To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Den-derine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

For sale and recommended by People's Drug Co., and King's Pharmacy.

Sick Room Hint.

A floor should never be swept in a room where there is a contagious disease patient. It should be washed with a cloth dipped in borax water, so that no dust annoys the patient, and no assortment of germs are flung up in the air, to drift out of the windows en route to fresh victims.

The World's Volcanoes.

The distribution of active volcanoes, of which there are between three and four hundred now in existence, deserves study. They are found in greatest number on the shores of the Pacific ocean, where more than half of the now active volcanoes are situated. As a rule they are situated in the neighborhood of the sea, or of some considerable sheet of water.

Scottish and Irish Gaelic.

The difference between the Scottish and Irish Gaelic is merely a variation of dialect. In both the accent or stress is on the root syllable of the word, but Scottish Gaelic dialect exhibits a tendency to follow the English fashion of throwing the accent as far back as possible.
